

As of 11:59 p.m. on October 23, 2020, Elections BC has received an estimated 497,900 returned vote-by-mail packages. This represents approximately 69% of packages issued to date. 724,279 registered voters have been issued a vote-by-mail package.

The estimated number of returned packages does not include:

- packages received by Canada Post that are currently in transit to Elections BC for return processing;
- packages dropped off at a district electoral office or voting place.

As voters have until October 24 to return their package and do not need to return their package to their electoral district of residence, accurate estimates of package returns by electoral district are unavailable at this stage.

After the return deadline has passed on October 24, the estimated number of packages returned will differ from the number of ballots that will be considered during the final count of absentee ballots. This is because all vote-by-mail packages are screened for compliance with the Election Act before being accepted for counting. Information on the number of mail-in votes to be considered at final count will be provided at a later date.

The following table provides the distribution of issued vote-by-mail packages by electoral district. Issued vote-by-mail packages include those that have been sent to voters and those that are being prepared to be mailed.
