

CANDIDATE NOMINATION BOOKLET – COLLECTING SIGNATURES ELECTRONICALLY FROM NOMINATORS

Under the Election Act, every candidate nomination package must be accompanied with at least 75 nominations from the electoral district. In order to be qualified to nominate a candidate, an individual must:

- be a Canadian citizen,
- be at least 18 years of age,
- be a resident of the electoral district,
- be eligible to vote,
- have been a resident of B.C. for the immediately preceding six months, and
- not nominate more than one candidate

Elections BC provides a form for candidates to collect nominations as part of the candidate nomination booklet.

While the nominations must be provided in writing, there is no requirement for nominations to all be provided using a “wet ink” signature, or that all nominations must be provided on the same form.

Where in-person nominations are not practical, such as individuals who live in rural areas, this form can be provided to qualified individuals who wish to nominate a candidate. The nomination form can be completed by the nominator and returned to the candidate by email or mail/courier so that it can be included as part of the candidate nomination package.

To help facilitate this, the nominator form has been made “form fillable”, allowing individuals to complete the candidate nomination form electronically. The tool used to provide an e-signature is up to the nominator. However, the e-signature must bear an image of a nominator’s usual signature. For example, a nominator could digitally apply an image of their usual signature using Adobe Reader’s Fill and Sign functionality. Please note that Elections BC is not an administrator of Adobe and cannot provide technical assistance for this program. For more information about Adobe products, please visit: <http://www.adobe.com>.

Nominator forms returned to the candidate that are completed with a nominator’s name, address and signature must not be forwarded to other nominators, and should stay in the custody of the candidate.

Candidates are responsible to:

- Ensure they collect sufficient signatures to meet the legislated requirements. In order to facilitate this, the candidate may have between 8 and 75 nominator forms attached to their candidate nomination booklet.

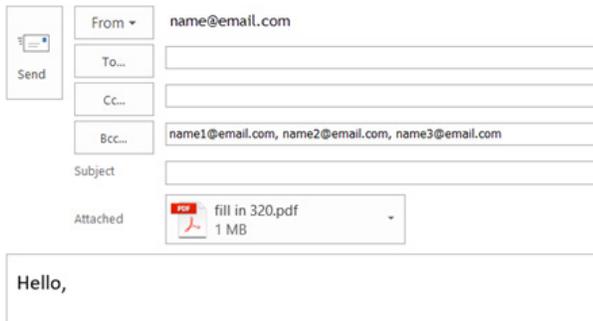

Note: It is recommended to have more than 75 nominators to ensure that enough valid signatures are obtained. Elections BC reviews the nomination information to ensure nominators are eligible, and some may be determined invalid during this process.

- Submit all the nominator forms as part of the complete candidate nomination package.

Reminder: Candidate nomination documents, including the nominator information, are available for public inspection for one year after the election. If nominators do not want their residential address to be publically available, they must indicate this on the form.

Steps to collect nominator signatures:

1. Save a copy of the candidate nomination booklet and complete with the candidate information. For convenience, we recommend entering information into the candidate nomination booklet's fillable fields using a device with a keyboard (e.g. a computer).
2. Share the completed candidate nomination booklet with qualified nominators, requesting that they complete, sign and return page 10 (Nominator form).
3. If sending to multiple email addresses, ensure you protect the privacy of each nominator. For example, you can enter email addresses in the BCC (blind carbon copy) field. Also, ensure the page being sent does not contain personal information of others.

Hello,

4. The nominator fills out the form, applies their e-signature, and emails it back to you or, the nominator can print the form, sign, scan, and then email back to you. If there is more than one qualified nominator available in that household, both nominators can sign the same nominator form (they do not need to submit separate forms).
