How to read this guide

The purpose of this guide is to assist non-election assent voting advertising sponsors to understand their responsibilities and legal obligations under the Local Elections Campaign Financing Act (LECFA). This guide provides valuable information and tips for meeting the recording and disclosure requirements for transactions related to non-election assent voting advertising. The last part of the guide includes instructions for completing the required disclosure statement that must be filed with Elections BC after General Voting Day.

How LECFA applies to any particular case will depend on the individual circumstances and may change if there are new legislative or judicial developments. Where there is inconsistency between this guide and LECFA, LECFA will prevail.

LECFA is available on the Elections BC website (elections.bc.ca/lecf). It can also be viewed at BC Laws (bclaws.ca) or purchased from Crown Publications (crownpub.bc.ca).

Elections BC: local elections campaign financing guides

This guide is for non-election assent voting advertising sponsors to assist with understanding the comprehensive rules under LECFA. Elections BC also produces the following guides available at elections.bc.ca/lecf:

- Guide to Local Elections Campaign Financing in B.C. for Candidates and their Financial Agents
- Guide to Local Elections Campaign Financing in B.C. for Elector Organizations and their Financial Agents
- Guide for Local Elections Third Party Sponsors in B.C.

Local elections: shared roles and responsibilities

General local elections are held every four years for mayors, councillors, electoral area directors, local community commissioners, board of education trustees, park board members and commissioners, advisory council members, regional trustees and Islands Trust local trustees in British Columbia.

Local governments and boards of education also hold by-elections to fill vacancies that occur between general local elections. Non-election assent voting is conducted periodically by local governments to obtain elector assent to carry out certain council and board recommendations (such as borrowing to construct a new library or recreation centre).

The Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing, the Local Government Management Association, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, the Ministry of Education, the British Columbia School Trustees Association and Elections BC all have educational materials related to local elections.

A local election officer is the chief election officer or designated local authority officer appointed for a jurisdiction by a local government or board of education.

Local election officers are responsible for:

- receiving nomination documents
- declaring candidates
- administering voting opportunities
- counting votes
- declaring election results

Assent voting

Assent voting is voting on a bylaw or other matter for which a local government is requesting the approval of the electors. Assent voting is commonly referred to as a “referendum.”

Assent voting can take place at the same time as a local election or at a different time (non-election assent voting). This guide addresses non-election assent voting advertising rules. For information about advertising rules for assent voting held at the same time as an election, see the Guide for Local Elections Third Party Sponsors in B.C.

Assent voting proceedings period

The assent voting proceedings period begins on the 28th day before General Voting Day (GVD) and ends at the close of general voting. During this period, non-election assent voting advertising sponsors are required to:

- register with Elections BC before sponsoring advertising, and
- include sponsorship information on all advertising.

Non-election assent voting advertising

The Local Elections Campaign Financing Act (LECFA) includes rules that non-election assent voting advertising sponsors must follow, including disclosure requirements for non-election assent voting advertising and financing.

Non-election assent voting advertising is only regulated during the assent voting proceedings period. Advertising conducted outside of this period is not subject to non-election assent voting advertising rules.

Non-election assent voting advertising rules create accountability and transparency by requiring advertising sponsors to record and disclose detailed information about non-election assent voting advertising and financing activities. This includes sponsorship contributions and non-election assent voting advertising expenses.

The definition of non-election assent voting advertising is broad and applies to advertising conducted during the assent voting proceedings period.

Non-election assent voting advertising is any transmission of a communication to the public during an assent voting proceedings period that directly or indirectly promotes or opposes a particular result in the assent voting.

With the exception of sponsorship information, Elections BC does not regulate the content of non-election assent voting advertising.

Example

A local community is conducting a non-election assent voting on the subject of borrowing funds to build a new public facility. Two different signs are placed by advertising sponsors. Both signs oppose the building of the new facility. One sign directly states its opposition and the other sign indirectly opposes the issue.

Direct opposition	Indirect opposition
"Vote NO on January 27"	"There are more important issues than building a new public facility"

Non-election assent voting advertising does not include:

- messages on the internet that do not, and would not normally, have a placement cost, including free social media posts, websites and videos. Examples of free messages that are not advertising include Facebook, Instagram and Snapchat posts, tweets, YouTube videos and websites.
- personal or private communications (such as private letters, emails, in-person or telephone conversations, etc.)
- free media coverage from a legitimate media provider (such as news stories, editorials, radio interviews, etc.)
- producing, promoting or distributing a publication if it was planned to be sold whether or not there was an election
- a communication by an individual or group sent directly to their members, employees or shareholders
- transmission by an individual, on a non-commercial basis, on the internet, or by telephone or text message of their personal views

Examples

Non-election assent voting advertising	Not non-election assent voting advertising
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ television, radio, newspaper or magazine advertisements ▪ signs, billboards, posters, bumper stickers or branded clothing or objects ▪ newsletters, brochures, mailing inserts or other advertising sent to the public ▪ ads on the internet with a placement cost (such as pay-per-click ads, Facebook ads, promoted posts, banner ads, pop-up ads, etc.) ▪ phone calls made using an automated system (i.e., robocalls) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ personal or private communications ▪ free media coverage from a legitimate media provider (such as a debate on a local news channel, news stories, radio interviews, etc.) ▪ a communication by an individual or group sent directly to their members, employees or shareholders ▪ any free communication on the internet (such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Snapchat, YouTube, etc.) ▪ person-to-person phone calls and text messages ▪ websites or blogs ▪ producing, promoting or distributing a publication if it was planned to be sold whether or not there was an election

Review process and evaluation criteria

Elections BC reviews and responds to questions about non-election assent voting advertising on a case-by-case basis.

The following questions are asked when determining if something is non-election assent voting advertising:

- Was the message transmitted to the public?
- Was it during the assent voting proceedings period?
- Did it directly or indirectly promote or oppose a particular result in the non-election assent voting?
- If the message was transmitted over the internet, was there, or would there normally be, a placement cost?

If the answer is “yes” for any of the above questions, the message could be non-election assent voting advertising.

Indicators that advertising and activities may be non-election assent voting advertising include:

- advertising that sets out pros and/or cons of voting yes or no
- advertising that compares the positions of elected officials, elector organizations or others on the assent voting question

- advertising that references the non-election assent voting and/or the date of General Voting Day
- advertising which uses language like “Your choice” or “Make your voice heard”
- advertising specifically planned to coincide with the assent voting proceedings period
- a substantial increase in the normal volume of advertising
- a substantial increase in the number and size of public events

Indicators that advertising and activities may not be non-election assent voting advertising include:

- advertising that does not take a position on an issue related to a non-election assent voting question
- advertising that has occurred historically during that particular time of year
- advertising that is consistent with previous advertising conducted by the individual or organization
- factual information on how to contact the individual or organization conducting the advertising

Requesting an opinion

On request, Elections BC will review a message and provide an opinion on whether it could be non-election assent voting advertising. To request an opinion, contact Elections BC toll-free by phone at 1-855-952-0280 or by email at lecf@elections.bc.ca.

Obtaining an opinion from Elections BC is not the same as obtaining a legal opinion. For greater certainty, obtain independent legal advice.

Registering as a non-election assent voting advertising sponsor

An individual or organization that wants to sponsor non-election assent voting advertising must register with Elections BC before doing the advertising. Individuals who make their own advertising materials are not advertising sponsors and do not require registration with Elections BC. To be an advertising sponsor, an individual must pay others for advertising services or receive free advertising services from others.

Example

A non-election assent voting advertising sponsor making a sign using their own materials does not have to register as a sponsor.

Any individual or organization can apply to register as a non-election assent voting advertising sponsor and is subject to the registration and financing disclosure requirements under the Local Elections Campaign Financing Act (LECFA).

When and how to register

To register, an application must be completed and submitted to Elections BC before conducting any advertising. The application form can be obtained by contacting Elections BC or found at elections.bc.ca/lecf.

An application must be fully completed and include the following:

Individual	Organization
Name and contact information	Names and contact information of the organization and its responsible principal officials (one of whom must act as the authorized principal official).

Advertising sponsor applications require solemn declarations, which must be witnessed by a Commissioner for Taking Affidavits for British Columbia. This can be done free of charge by:

- local election officers
- Service BC Centre staff (servicebc.gov.bc.ca/locations)
- Elections BC staff in Victoria

Steps to apply to register as a non-election assent voting advertising sponsor:

1. Complete the relevant application form (available at elections.bc.ca/lecf)
 - 4700 - Registration Application – Individual
 - 4701 - Registration Application – Organization
 - 4701B - Registration Application – Responsible Principal Officials
2. Submit the form(s) to Elections BC by email, mail or fax.
3. If the application is approved, Elections BC will send a letter confirming registration.
4. If the application is not approved, or if more information is required, Elections BC will contact the applicant, explain the reasons for refusal and provide an opportunity to supply the additional information for a reconsideration of the decision.

Registration as an advertising sponsor is only valid for one assent voting event. Sponsors will need to re-register with Elections BC if they wish to sponsor advertising for a future assent voting event.

Requirement to file registration information updates

Registered sponsors must keep their registration information current by advising Elections BC if any of the information changes (i.e., a change in contact information or responsible principal officials).

Steps to update advertising sponsor registration information:

1. Complete the applicable update form (available at elections.bc.ca/lecf)
 - 4702 - Registration Update – Individual
 - 4703 - Registration Update – Organization
 - 4703B - Registration Update – Responsible Principal Officials
2. Submit the form(s) to Elections BC by email, mail or fax.
3. If the update form is complete, Elections BC will update the information without contacting the sponsor.
4. If more information is required to process the registration update, Elections BC will make contact and explain what is required.

Determining the sponsor of non-election assent voting advertising

Generally, the sponsor of non-election assent voting advertising is the individual or organization that pays for the advertising. If two or more advertising sponsors sponsor advertising together, they are co-sponsors.

Example

Amanda and Jeremy are both registered advertising sponsors that decide to create a shared brochure. Amanda designs and prints the brochure for both sponsors to distribute.

Who is the sponsor of the advertising?

Amanda and Jeremy are co-sponsors of the advertising.

The advertising sponsor is still the sponsor even if:

- the advertising is provided to the sponsor as a sponsorship contribution, or
- another individual or organization conducts advertising on behalf the sponsor.

Example

A local parents' group meets with XYZ Organization and they decide, with XYZ's consent, that the parents' group will create brochures on their behalf and distribute them door-to-door during the assent voting proceedings period.

Who is the sponsor of the advertising?

XYZ Organization is the sponsor. The local parents' group is working on behalf of XYZ to create and distribute the brochures. The cost of preparing and printing the brochure is an advertising expense of XYZ Organization.

Because only eligible individuals may make a sponsorship contribution to an advertising sponsor, the parents' group cannot pay for the brochures. XYZ Organization must pay for or reimburse the cost of the advertising.

Sponsorship information on non-election assent voting advertising

Sponsorship information, also known as an authorization statement, is required on most non-election assent voting advertising and must include:

- the name of the sponsor,
- the words “authorized by” in front of the sponsor’s name,
- that the sponsor is registered under LECFA, and
- a B.C. phone number, or B.C. mailing address or email address where the sponsor can be contacted

Sponsorship information must be on the advertising itself and must be in English or understandable to readers of English. If the advertising is in another language, the sponsorship information must also be in that language or understandable to readers of that language.

Although there are no size requirements for the sponsorship information, it must be clear and readable.

If the advertising is co-sponsored by two or more advertising sponsors, the sponsorship information for each sponsor must be on the advertising.

Example 2

Example 4

Multiple sponsors

Non-election assent voting advertising exempt from sponsorship information requirement

Certain types of non-election assent voting advertising do not require sponsorship information:

- clothing
- novelty items (such as buttons, badges, pins, stickers, bumper stickers, wristbands)
- small items of nominal value that are intended for personal use (such as pens, mugs, magnets, key chains, notepads, business cards)

Sponsorship information for advertising on the internet

For internet advertising that has or would normally have a placement cost, the sponsorship information does not need to be on the ad if there is a link that takes the viewer to the website, landing page or profile page that contains it.

Determining value of non-election assent voting advertising

The value of non-election assent voting advertising is an advertising expense and is:

- the price paid for preparing and transmitting the advertising, or
- if the advertising is provided for free or at a discount, the market value of preparing and transmitting the advertising.

The value of non-election assent voting advertising includes all property and services used in preparing and transmitting the advertising to the public (such as materials, transmission fees, design services, taxes, etc.).

Example

A non-election assent voting advertising sponsor pays an agency $500 to produce a radio advertisement and then pays a radio station $150 per play. The ad is played 20 times during the assent voting proceedings period.

What is the value of this advertising?

The production cost plus the cost per play multiplied by the number of times played: $500 + $3,000 ($150 x 20 plays) = $3,500.

Individuals who are sponsors do not have to value their own services used to prepare or transmit advertising. However, they must include any property consumed in producing or transmitting the advertising, such as paper, wood, paint and gasoline. Property not consumed, such as a vehicle or a computer, is not included in the value of the advertising.

Example

An individual sponsor prepares a brochure on their own computer and makes 500 copies at a local print shop for $0.25 per copy. The sponsor delivers the brochures using their own car to 500 different homes within the community. The sponsor uses $20 worth of gas to deliver the brochures.

What is the value of this advertising?

500 brochures x $0.25 printing = $125 x a tax rate of 12% = $140 + $20 gas (tax already included) = $160 total value.

Valuing staff, volunteer and outside services

A volunteer's services do not need to be valued or included in the value of the advertising.

The value of services used to prepare and transmit advertising must be included in the value of the advertising if:

- the services are purchased or received from an outside vendor, or
- the services are performed by employees of an organization that is an advertising sponsor
- the services are provided by a self-employed individual that normally charges for the service

Example

A sponsor has a paid staff member prepare an advertising message that is non-election assent voting advertising.

Does the sponsor include the value of the staff member's services in the value of the non-election assent voting advertising?

Yes. The staff member's services are included in the value of the advertising. Since the staff member is paid to perform these services, their wages are included in the value of the advertising.

The value of any property owned by a volunteer that is consumed in producing or transmitting non-election assent voting advertising, such as paper, wood, paint and gasoline must be included in the value of the advertising. Property of a volunteer that is not consumed in producing or transmitting advertising, such as a vehicle or a computer, is not included in the value of the advertising.

Example

A volunteer uses their own vehicle to drive around the community and place non-election assent voting advertising signs. The volunteer uses $10 of gas to do this.

What does the sponsor need to include in the value of the advertising?

The sponsor must include the full value of the signs and the $10 of gas that the volunteer used to place the signs.

Prorating and apportioning non-election assent voting advertising

The value of non-election assent voting advertising can be prorated or apportioned according to the following principles:

- The full production cost of the advertising must be included in the value. This applies to all non-election assent voting advertising even if the advertising is used for other purposes before the assent voting proceedings period or will continue to be used after the non-election assent voting.
- For transmission costs, include only the portion related to transmission during the assent voting proceedings period.
- For advertising that is co-sponsored by two or more registered sponsors, each sponsor must report the amount that they paid and the total value of the advertising.

Example

Two advertising sponsors jointly rent a billboard for one year at a rate of $1,000 per month ($12,000 total). The cost of producing the billboard advertisement is $2,000. The billboard meets the definition of non-election assent voting advertising, and it remains on display through the assent voting proceedings period.

What is the value of the non-election assent voting advertising?

Since the assent voting proceedings period is 29 days, including General Voting Day, 29 days' worth of transmission costs must be included along with the full production value of the billboard advertisement. The total value of the non-election assent voting advertising must be fully reported by both sponsors:

Total value of non-election assent voting advertising:

$$2,000 + [$12,000 \div 365 \text{ days} \times 29 \text{ days}] = $2,953.42 \text{ each.}$

Advertising restrictions

Where and when signs may be placed

Elections BC does not regulate where and when signs may be placed. However, local governments have the authority to regulate the size, placement, maintenance and removal of signs and other forms of public advertising. Contact your local government for more information about election sign bylaws in your area.

The Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure regulates sign placement on provincial highways. Please refer to the Ministry's policy at <https://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/transportation/transportation-infrastructure/engineering-standards-guidelines/technical-circulars/election-referendum-sign-policy>.

Important safety note: placing election signs by digging or driving stakes into the ground can pose a safety hazard to sign installers and to underground infrastructure (such as gas lines and other utilities). Before placing election signs, you may wish to contact BC One Call at 1-800-474-6886 to determine if there are risks in your area. This service is free of charge and is not associated with Elections BC.

Authority to remove unauthorized and restricted advertising

If non-election assent voting advertising does not include the required sponsorship information, or is conducted by an unregistered sponsor, Elections BC may require that the advertising be:

- corrected
- discontinued
- covered
- obscured
- removed
- destroyed

Campaigning restrictions on General Voting Day

An individual or organization must not transmit non-election assent voting advertising to the public on General Voting Day (GVD), except:

- advertising on the internet as long as the advertising was transmitted to the public before GVD and was not changed before the close of voting
- advertising by means of signs, posters or banners
- distributing pamphlets
- advertising on the internet that is for the sole purpose of encouraging voters to vote

Permitted on General Voting Day	Not permitted on General Voting Day
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ using free social media ▪ person-to-person interactions, such as phone calls, emails, text messages, etc. ▪ placing signs or distributing brochures outside of 100 metres of a voting place ▪ advertising on the internet as long as the advertising is not changed on GVD or is solely to encourage voters to vote ▪ campaign meetings or rallies outside of 100 metres of a voting place ▪ automated voice calls (robocalls) and automated text messages solely to encourage voters to vote 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ scheduling paid ads on the internet, including paid social media posts on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, etc. ▪ automated voice calls (robocalls) and automated text messages that promote or oppose a particular result in the assent voting ▪ placing signs or distributing brochures within 100 metres of a voting place ▪ television, radio or newspaper ads

Non-election assent voting advertising is never permitted within 100 metres of a voting place while voting is being conducted.

For more information about the 100 metre rule, please contact your local authority.

Sponsorship contributions

A sponsorship contribution is the value of any money, property or services provided without compensation to a non-election assent voting advertising sponsor to be used for advertising. A sponsorship contribution can be made at any time.

A sponsorship contribution can be a donation of money or goods, advance, deposit or discount. Sponsorship contributions of money can be made by cash, cheque, credit card or electronic funds transfer.

Sponsorship contribution source restrictions

Sponsorship contributions can only be made by eligible individuals and cannot be made by organizations or any other individuals.

An eligible individual is:

- a resident of British Columbia, and
- a Canadian citizen or a permanent resident.

Making and accepting sponsorship contributions

The following are rules for making and accepting sponsorship contributions:

- Only eligible individuals may make sponsorship contributions and advertising sponsors may only accept contributions from eligible individuals
- When accepting a sponsorship contribution, the sponsor must record the value, the date the contribution was made and the required contributor information including their residential address
- Contributors must provide information so that sponsors can meet their legal disclosure requirements
- Donated (in-kind) property or services must be assigned a market value, recorded and disclosed in the same way as contributions of money.

Crowdfunding, or crowdsourcing, for sponsorship contributions through the internet is also permitted. The crowdfunding system must require the contributor to provide the value, the date the contribution was made and the required contributor information so the sponsor can record it. Anonymous contributions cannot be collected over the internet.

Anonymous sponsorship contributions

Anonymous contributions of $50 or less are allowed. However, an eligible individual can only give a total of $50 in anonymous contributions to a single advertising sponsor. The sponsor must record the value and date of the contribution and how it was received.

An anonymous contribution of more than $50 is prohibited. It is also prohibited to accept multiple anonymous contributions from the same eligible individual totalling more than $50.

An anonymous contribution must be truly anonymous. This means that the sponsor does not know who made the contribution. It is not permissible for a contributor to ask that their contribution be anonymous.

Example

An advertising sponsor is hosting a social function and Maya, a volunteer for the sponsor, monitors a donation jar at the entrance. Maya observes that eight people make anonymous contributions for a total of $112, and no one donates more than $50.

Are these anonymous contributions permissible?

Yes. They are permissible because no one has donated more than $50.

Discounted property or services

If property or services are provided by an eligible individual to the sponsor at less than market value, the eligible individual is making a sponsorship contribution. The sponsorship contribution is the difference between the price paid and the market value.

Market value is the lowest price charged for an equivalent amount of property or services in the market area at the time.

Example

Jeremy is a sole proprietor of a sign shop and gives a special discount on signs to an advertising sponsor. The signs would normally cost $1,500, but the sponsor is only charged $1,000. Jeremy has made a sponsorship contribution as an eligible individual.

(Remember that organizations may not make sponsorship contributions so if Jeremy's business is incorporated, it must not give the sponsor a discount)

What is the value of the contribution?

The sponsorship contribution is valued and recorded as $500 ($1,500 - $1,000)..

Donated property or services

Donated property or services, also called in-kind contributions, may only be given by eligible individuals and must be recorded as a sponsorship contribution. The value of an in-kind sponsorship contribution is its market value.

Example

Deanne donates wood for signs to an advertising sponsor. The value of the wood is $500. Deanne is making a sponsorship contribution as an eligible individual.

What is the value of the contribution?

The value of the sponsorship contribution is $500.

Required contributor information and other recording requirements for sponsorship contributions

Advertising sponsors must keep accurate and detailed records of all sponsorship contributions. Detailed records will make completing the disclosure statements easier.

Sponsors must record the following for each sponsorship contribution:

- the full name, mailing address and, if it is different, residential address of the contributor
- the value of the sponsorship contribution
- the date the sponsorship contribution was made

A residential address is the eligible individual's home address. Mailing addresses such as a PO box, work address or commercial address are not acceptable.

A contribution must come from a single eligible individual. If a contribution appears to come from multiple eligible individuals, the sponsor must determine which contributor made the donation and record that information.

Example

Josie, an advertising sponsor, receives a contribution by cheque from Sam and Pat Smith for $300. Josie must determine which eligible individual made the contribution.

Scenario 1

Josie contacts Sam and Pat and asks which name should be recorded as the contributor. Sam tells Josie that the contribution was intended to come from both of them. Josie records a contribution of $150 each from Sam Smith and Pat Smith.

Scenario 2

Sam tells Josie that the contribution was from Pat only. Josie records a $300 contribution from Pat Smith.

Significant contributors

Significant contributors are eligible individuals who make sponsorship contributions of $100 or more to the same advertising sponsor. The contributions could be either a single donation of $100 or more, or multiple donations that total $100 or more. This includes in-kind contributions.

Information about significant contributors must be disclosed in the sponsor's disclosure statement. This includes:

- full name and residential address of contributor
- value of contribution
- date of contribution

Elections BC will remove residential addresses of contributors before publishing disclosure statements.

Example 1

On September 1, Raj, an advertising sponsor, receives a $50 contribution from his uncle, who is an eligible individual. It is the first contribution his uncle has made.

Is the uncle a significant contributor?

No. The value is less than $100.

Example 2

On September 23, Raj's uncle gives Raj a $75 contribution.

Is the uncle now a significant contributor?

Yes. The total contributions from him are now $100 or more ($$50 + $75 = \125).

Indirect contributions

Indirect sponsorship contributions are not allowed. This means that someone cannot give money or other property or services to a person for that person to make a sponsorship contribution.

Making a sponsorship contribution with someone else's money, property or services is also prohibited.

Prohibited contributions

It is an offence to make or knowingly accept a prohibited contribution. If an advertising sponsor becomes aware that a contribution is prohibited, they must return the contribution, or an amount equal to its value, within 30 days.

If the contribution cannot be returned (such as an anonymous contribution over $50) the sponsor must send it to Elections BC.

Example

An advertising sponsor receives an anonymous contribution of $75 in an envelope. The sponsor keeps $50 and sends the remaining $25 to Elections BC.

Is this permissible?

No. All of the $75 must be sent to Elections BC because it is an anonymous contribution over $50.

Loans or debts

Any loan or debt in relation to non-election assent voting advertising that remains unpaid for six months after it becomes due converts to a sponsorship contribution unless the creditor has started legal proceedings to recover it. Creditors keep their rights to collect the loan or debt past the six month period even if no action to collect is taken.

Prohibited contribution rules apply to loans or debts that become sponsorship contributions from organizations or ineligible individuals.

If a loan or debt becomes a sponsorship contribution after the disclosure statement is filed with Elections BC, the sponsor must file a supplementary report. See page 29 for information on supplementary reports.

Permissible loans

Advertising sponsors may receive loans from eligible individuals and savings institutions for non-election assent voting advertising. Loans from savings institutions must not have an interest rate that is lower than the prime rate of the government's principal banker.

Sponsors must record the following for each loan received:

- if the loan is received from an eligible individual, the full name and residential address of the lender
- if the loan is received from a savings institution, the name of the savings institution
- amount of the loan
- date the loan was made
- due date of the loan
- interest rate of the loan
- if the loan is received from a savings institution, the prime rate of interest at the time the loan is made

If a sponsor becomes aware that a loan has been accepted in contravention of LECFA, they must return the loan or pay the lender an amount equal to the loan within 30 days.

Disclosure statements

Non-election assent voting advertising sponsors are responsible for filing disclosure statements with Elections BC. A disclosure statement includes information on all sponsorship contributions and advertising expenses. A disclosure statement must be filed for every sponsor. All disclosure statements must be completed on Elections BC forms.

Who must file

Sponsors that have less than $500 of advertising expenses only have to file the cover page of the disclosure statement.

Sponsors that have advertising expenses of $500 or more must include all other applicable forms in the disclosure statement.

If the sponsor is an organization, the responsible principal officials have a responsibility to ensure that the disclosure statement is filed.

If a sponsor was registered for multiple non-election assent voting events held at the same time, a separate disclosure statement must be filed for each non-election assent voting.

Disclosure statements can be filed by:

- email
- mail
- courier
- fax
- hand to a Service BC Centre (servicebc.gov.bc.ca/locations)
- hand to the Elections BC office in Victoria

Filing deadline

The filing deadline for disclosure statements is 4:30 p.m. (Pacific time), 90 days after General Voting Day.

Disclosure statements filed by the filing deadline are accepted as long as the disclosure requirements are met. If a disclosure statement requires additional information before it can be accepted, Elections BC will contact the sponsor to give them an opportunity to make the required corrections. If a sponsor does not meet the 90 day deadline, they may file the disclosure statement under the late filing provisions discussed below.

The disclosure statement must be received and accepted by Elections BC by the filing deadline. A postmark is not acceptable as proof of delivery.

The B.C. Chief Electoral Officer may grant extensions to the filing deadline in extraordinary circumstances. Requests for extensions must be made in writing to the B.C. Chief Electoral Officer before the 90 day filing deadline.

Late filing deadline

The late filing deadline is 4:30 p.m. (Pacific time), 120 days after General Voting Day (GVD). Disclosure statements submitted between 91 and 120 days after GVD must include a $500 late filing fee.

It is an offence to not file a disclosure statement by the late filing deadline. There are significant penalties for committing offences.

Compliance review

Elections BC conducts a routine compliance review of each disclosure statement to ensure the requirements under the Local Elections Campaign Financing Act are met. If any issues are identified, Elections BC will contact the sponsor to request additional information.

If issues identified during the compliance review remain unresolved, Elections BC may require the sponsor to file a supplementary report.

Supplementary reports

If Elections BC advises a non-election assent voting advertising sponsor that a supplementary report is required, it must be submitted within 30 days of the notification.

A supplementary report must also be filed if a sponsor becomes aware that information previously disclosed has changed or does not completely and accurately disclose the information required.

A supplementary report must:

- provide details about the addition, change or correction to the original disclosure statement
- include a description of the circumstances that led to filing the supplementary report
- be in a form approved by Elections BC

Requirement for retaining records

Non-election assent voting advertising records must be retained in British Columbia until five years after General Voting Day. These records must include:

- copies of the disclosure statement forms
- records of contributions and required contributor information
- deposit slips
- expense receipts
- cheque registers
- transaction slips
- all other records related to sponsorship contributions and non-election assent voting advertising

Sponsors must keep all records and other material related to the disclosure statement until all disclosure requirements have been fulfilled. If the sponsor is an organization, the authorized principal official becomes responsible for retaining records and materials after the disclosure requirements are met.

Public information

Disclosure statements are made available on the Elections BC website after the filing deadline. They may also be viewed at the Elections BC office in Victoria. All residential addresses of significant contributors will be redacted prior to publication.

Copies of disclosure statements may be obtained from either Elections BC for a fee.

Penalties, offences and court order for relief

Elections BC works closely with participants to help them understand and comply with the non-election assent voting advertising rules and regulations.

Non-election assent voting advertising sponsor penalties and offences

Failing to comply with the advertising sponsor rules in the Local Elections Campaign Financing Act (LECFA) is an offence and a person who commits an offence is liable to a fine and/or imprisonment.

There are also administrative penalties imposed by the B.C. Chief Electoral Officer for failing to comply with the advertising sponsor rules. Administrative penalties include monetary penalties and disqualification.

A list of disqualified candidates, elector organizations and advertising sponsors is available on the Elections BC website and at the Elections BC office in Victoria.

Failing to file a disclosure statement

Advertising sponsors who fail to file a disclosure statement or supplementary report are disqualified from sponsoring third party or non-election assent voting advertising and prohibited from accepting sponsorship contributions until after the next general local elections. However, sponsors may still accept sponsorship contributions for the purpose of paying debts in relation to the assent voting event to which the penalty applies.

It is also an offence to fail to file a disclosure statement or supplementary report. If the sponsor is an individual, they are liable to a fine of up to $10,000 and/or imprisonment for up to two years. If the sponsor is an organization, they are liable to a fine of up to $20,000.

Providing false or misleading information

Providing false or misleading information or making a false or misleading statements under LECFA is an offence. Individuals who commit such an offence are liable to a fine of up to $10,000 and/or imprisonment for up to two years. Organizations that commit such an offence are liable to a fine of up to $20,000.

Court orders for relief

Advertising sponsors or responsible principal officials can apply to the Supreme Court for a court order for relief from disclosure requirements. These applications must be made before the late filing deadline.

Sponsors applying for court relief may want to consult independent legal counsel about the court process.

For details on filing for a court order for relief, see sections 66-72 of the Local Elections Campaign Financing Act.
